WELCOME TO WAYNE COUNTY. WELCOME HOME.

On behalf of the 12 townships & 7 municipalities that form Wayne County, I welcome you to one of the most beautiful, diverse, and historically rich regions of North Carolina. Since 1779, Wayne County has led the way in agriculture, business (and eastern NC pride) and we are home to one of the most renowned fighter units in the world—Seymour Johnson Air Force Base.

Known for our turkeys, pickles, BBQ, and strong military presence, we are a community of many successes. This community guide comes to you with the compliments of the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce and the many businesses we represent. The Wayne County Chamber of Commerce has a legacy, more than a century old, of accomplishing great things for our region. Today, our commitment to building a stronger community and economy remains steady.

The Chamber works to help ensure our regional schools, transportation, businesses, arts and culture thrive. We are home to the Military Affairs Committee, Wayne Education Network, Governmental Affairs Committee, Ambassadors and Leadership Wayne. Our focus areas span across everything that makes Wayne County the absolute best place to call home. Serving nearly 600 members, the Chamber is committed to unity and the open exchange of information and ideas.

Whether you spend an afternoon paddling the Neuse River, patronizing local businesses, biking in our parks, or stopping in awe as an F-15E Strike Eagle flies overhead, we hope you truly feel at home and enjoy all that our community has to offer. I ask that you remember to shop local, and celebrate our successes as we continue to grow!

We cordially welcome you Home.

Sincerely,

Kate M. Daniels

GOLDSBORO

Located in the heart of Wayne County, Goldsborough was incorporated in 1847 and became the county seat. The city of Goldsboro now boasts a population of almost 40,000 and offers all of the amenities of a progressive city. A wonderfully diverse community, Goldsboro is renowned for its many picturesque neighborhoods, historic buildings, family-friendly events and rich heritage.

MOUNT OLIVE

Just to the south of Goldsboro sits the second largest municipality in the county, Mount Olive, offering southern charm and grace at its finest. Mount Olive proudly holds the distinction of being the headquarters of the Mount Olive Pickle Company and is home to University of Mount Olive, a four year liberal arts university.

SEVEN SPRINGS

Nestled on the banks of the Neuse River, the tiny hamlet of Seven Springs holds the distinction of being the oldest settlement in Wayne County. During the Civil War, the town was a thriving community and was the site of a confederate shipyard. The natural springs that ultimately gave the town its name were developed following the Civil War.

Based on its strategic location, Wayne County has experienced a development boom. People here take pride in their communities and give back in countless ways. The result is an enviable quality of life for residents, fertile ground for businesses to grow and thrive, and a wide array of attractions, events and activities for visitors.

EUREKA

Located in the northeast portion, Eureka received its unusual moniker from a group of locals who were searching for a new name. As the story goes, one of them shouted out “Eureka!” which literally translated means “I’ve found it.” The name stuck and was officially changed in 1901. With a population of just under 300, Eureka epitomizes old-fashioned community values.

PIKEVILLE

Established in 1891, Pikeville is one of the oldest towns in Wayne County and is now one of the fastest growing areas of the county. Easily accessible to Raleigh and the Research Triangle Park, Pikeville offers the advantage of small-town living with the convenience of a larger city.

FREMONT

Fremont is a picturesque community located in the northern part of Wayne County with easy access to I-795 and I-95. With 1,500 residents, Fremont is locally known for its flowers found in the many wonderfully manicured lawns and public spaces. Fremont is also home to the Governor Charles B. Aycock Birthplace Historic Site.

VILLAGE OF WALNUT CREEK

Wayne County offers the very finest in country club living in the Village of Walnut Creek, located in the eastern part of the county. Ranked one of the wealthiest communities in North Carolina, Walnut Creek is comprised of elegant estates situated on gently rolling terrain in a natural, tree-covered expanse. Walnut Creek offers its members and guests the amenities of a first-rate country club.

HISTORY OF

Wayne County

Listen to the lessons of the past and learn why Wayne County is steeped with historical significance. Our rich history is laden with stories of Tuscarora Indians, steam boats, Revolutionary skirmishes, and Civil War battles. The world's longest railroad once ran through our county, as we are at the center of many a crossroad.

CIVIL WAR HISTORY

Goldsboro was an important railroad junction during the Civil War. Confederate troops were stationed here to guard the city and report for duty by rail. Hospitals were established and over 800 Confederate soldiers were buried in a mass grave at Willowdale Cemetery. Breastworks were built to protect the city. Remains are still visible along Claiborne Street. www.civilwartrails.org

THE BATTLE OF GOLDSBOROUGH BRIDGE: FOSTER'S RAID

In December 1862, Union General John Foster marched from New Bern with an army of 12,000 men. The intent was to interrupt the Confederate supply chain by destroying the railroad bridge which crossed the Neuse River, three miles south of Goldsborough. On December 17, Union troops attacked and pushed back a small force of 2,000 Confederates, then burned the bridge and destroyed miles of railroad tracks. That afternoon Confederate forces attacked the rear of Foster's army as it was leaving the field. The Confederates suffered over 150 casualties and Union losses were under 100. Re-enactments of the battle are held on the site every two years. www.goldsboroughbridge.com

THE UNION OCCUPATION OF GOLDSBOROUGH

In 1865, Goldsborough was Union General Sherman's destination on his march through the Carolinas. Three Union armies converged on Goldsborough and captured the city in March. Union hospitals were established, and the city was occupied for three weeks by over 100,000 Union soldiers.

SEYMOUR JOHNSON AIR FORCE BASE

First activated in 1942, the installation was named in honor of U.S. Navy Lt. Seymour A. Johnson, a Goldsboro native, who was killed in March 1941. By 1944, the primary mission of the base was to train P-47 Thunderbolt pilots. Following World War II, the base was inactivated. In 1954, Goldsboro Mayor Scott B. Berkeley Sr. and a group of business leaders successfully lobbied to have the base reopened. Seymour Johnson was reactivated in 1956. Two years later, the storied 4th Fighter Group then known as the 4th Fighter Day Wing arrived. Today it is home of the 4th Fighter Wing, which flies the F-15E Strike Eagle, and the 916th Air Refueling Wing, which flies the KC-135R Stratotanker. In 2001, former Department of Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld named SJAFB the winner of the 2001 Commander-In-Chief's Award for Installation Excellence, recognizing outstanding and innovative efforts. As one of five recipients of this award, SJAFB was selected for its exemplary support of the Department of Defense mission and received $1.1 million in base improvements.

EXPERIENCE

Experience Goldsboro's historic downtown, as well as the abundant appeal of the area. Our landmarks are reminders of the hard work and success of the past. Many consider our town a living museum where history is preserved amidst a variety of things to do and see, and our rural charm makes Wayne County one of the most beautiful areas of the state to visit.

experience WAYNE

WHY GOLDSBORO-WAYNE COUNTY?

We could go on about our scenic state park, historic sites that date back to antebellum era, legendary BBQ joints, and brag about the daily airshows we witness as F-15E Strike Eagles soar across our skies, but what our appeal really boils down to is its originality.

SAVOR THE SIMPLE LIFE

Our county doesn't try to offer the stocked tourism menu folks can find in most cities. Instead, we capitalize on the simple way of life that gets lost in the technology and noise of metropolitan settings. Best put, we promote experiential tourism. Whether the traveler arrives to Wayne County for business or pleasure, our goal remains the same. We aim to provide a way for both residents and visitors to enjoy an authentic experience full of outdoor adventure, unique flavors, history, genuine hospitality, and airpower that cannot be found or duplicated elsewhere.

BEER AND BBQ

Like to eat? Good. So do we! Goldsboro is dubbed a "Beer City" and Wayne County is home to two historic BBQ joints found on the NC Historic BBQ Trail. What really makes us worth the trip is our brews & 'cue. When you have to make a decision on your next event, forget your brain and your heart. Listen to your taste buds!

Home to some of the most historic BBQ in the state, it's no wonder we had to create our own Brews & 'Cue map to help navigate your taste buds. Featured in Times Magazine, Southern Living, Garden & Gun, you've got to make it a priority to grab one of the tastiest meals of your life at Wilber's BBQ, Grady's BBQ, Adam's Roadside, or McCall's Seafood & BBQ!

It seems like breweries are popping up everywhere these days, but here in Goldsboro-Wayne County, we encourage you to be your own favorite brewery!

A wide selection of beer and wine from near and far is waiting at one of Goldsboro's numerous tap rooms and home brew stores. For the local flavor, head to downtown Mount Olive to savor R&R Brewing's selection. A wide selection of fun, family friendly events, like Movie Night and Sunday Morning Yoga, are also offered at our local craft beer joints. Plus, you can always find live music every weekend in this quaint Beer City!

CHERRY HOSPITAL MUSEUM

Originally opened in 1880 by the state for African Americans with mental illnesses, Cherry Hospital was renamed in 1959 for Governor R. Gregg Cherry. Patients worked its 3,500 acres of farmland until the 1970's. The museum depicts over a century of history with photographs, log books, and a variety of the hospital's authentic medical and farming equipment.

THE GOLDSBOROUGH BRIDGE BATTLEFIELD

The battlefield is the site of the battle of Goldsborough Bridge, where on December 17, 1862, some 2,000 Confederate forces attempted to stop Union Gen. John Foster's 12,000 troops from destroying a vital railroad bridge. The bridge, located south of the city over the Neuse River, was a key position for both Union and Confederate forces. An informational kiosk provides visitors with a battlefield map and further information. Walking trails surround the cultivated field which Confederate troops crossed during their bloody counterattack against the Union rear guard. These trails take visitors to nine additional historical markers where specific events of the battle are detailed. Two sets of well-preserved earthworks may be viewed, as well as the site of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Bridge, the objective of the Union army.

MOUNT OLIVE HISTORIC DISTRICT

Mount Olive was formed as a village before the Civil War and was occupied by Union soldiers in Foster's Raid on December 16, 1862. Incorporated in 1870, the town is home to the world famous Mount Olive Pickle Company and the North Carolina Pickle Festival. Mount Olive has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places since 1999.

SEVEN SPRINGS UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

The "Church on the Hill," was built in 1874 and overlooks the village of Seven Springs. The hill saw Civil War occupation by Union soldiers during the Battle of Whitehall, in which Union and Confederate soldiers fought from opposite sides of the Neuse River.

DILLARD ALUMNI CENTER/H.V. BROWN HALL

In 1869, the Quakers offered to provide a free school for African American Children, if the parents could furnish a building. The school opened in 1882 under the name Goldsboro Grade School. Reverend Clarence Dillard came to Goldsboro in 1884 to serve as pastor of the Presbyterian (Shiloh) Church. In 1894, Reverend Dillard became principal of the school. The building that Reverend Dillard saw erected was named Dillard High School. In 1956, the school celebrated 30 years of accreditation and two years later, a national alumni association organization was chartered. The group, "Dillard/ Goldsboro Alumni and Friends, Inc.," attracts thousands of visitors each Memorial Day weekend and has a full-service community facility.

STAGESTRUCK: THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S OWN THEATRE

In May 1990, the Community Arts Council asked for volunteers to establish a theatre group for children. Seven adults attended an organizational meeting. This small group defined its mission: to provide the youth of Wayne County an opportunity to explore and to experience different aspects of the theatre. The name "StageStruck: The Young People's Own Theatre" was soon adopted. In the developmental years that followed the mission was expanded ~ "to encourage young people's knowledge of, interest in, and participation in the theatrical performing arts."

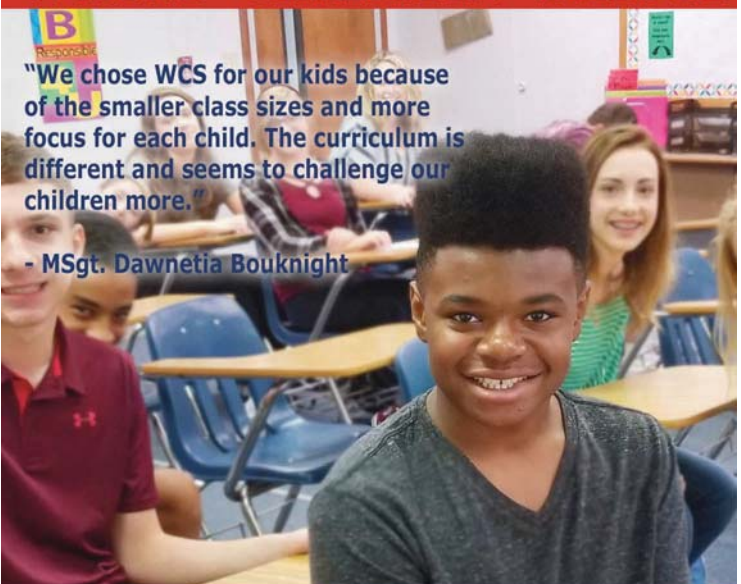

StageStruck produces two major theatrical productions each year (fall & spring) which require auditions; holds four summer camp programs (ages 4 - 12th grade), private voice and piano lessons year 'round, as well as a unique production focused on K - 5th grade students, usually by registration instead of audition. Our performances are held at various venues in the county, including the Paramount Theatre, community centers, church fellowship halls and school multipurpose rooms.

the MAXWELL CENTER

There is a premiere meeting space in Eastern North Carolina in Wayne County – The Maxwell Regional Agricultural and Convention Center, better known as The Maxwell Center. Since opening in March 2018, this high-end facility has had an economic impact to the community of over $5,000,000. Featuring state of the art audio-visual and the equipment you need to bring your corporate training, fundraiser, conference, convention, banquet, wedding or reception to life, The Maxwell Center would love to be host to your event. In addition to corporate, government, and non-profit clients, we frequently host birthdays, retirements, graduations, reunions, worship services, and all types of friends and family celebrations.

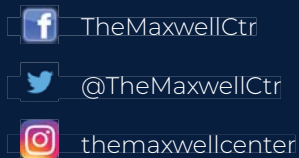

The Maxwell Center provides many in-house services that include beverages, audio visual, free internet access, trade show decor services, and free parking. We create ease and convenience for any event. Working with regional caterers, The Maxwell Center offers a list of delicious food options. Our expert event team will help you to not just plan an event, but to offer your guests and attendees an experience!

The facility consists of two different indoor wings plus additional outdoor areas. Built beside Wayne Community College at 3114 Wayne Memorial Drive. The 66,000 square foot facility houses local agriculture agencies in the East Wing including: Cooperative Extension, Wayne Soil and Water, and USDA Farm Service Agency. The West Wing features flexible rental space including up to 14,500 square foot ballroom which will seat up to 2,000 theatre style and 950+ at banquet rounds. There are also four classrooms, a catering kitchen, pre-function space lobbies, and a 10,000 square foot outdoor courtyard. Also on the campus is over 550 parking spaces, a greenhouse and the Farm Credit Farmers Market.

Available for private or public functions, the venue offers a great space for the community to come together to meet, share, worship, dine, or celebrate.

The county project was made possible from local, state, and private funds. Many local agriculture businesses have given significant funds to assist with this project. The Maxwell Family, owners of Goldsboro Milling Company and Butterball Turkeys have sponsored the naming rights for the facility. Contact us to see more about The Maxwell Center:

BRYAN MULTI-SPORTS COMPLEX

The Bryan Multi-Sports Complex, a 63-acre facility adjacent to Seymour Johnson AFB, is a first-of-its-kind partnership between a military base and its home community. The Bryan Multi-Sports Complex has six irrigated natural Bermuda hybrid grass fields and two artificial turf fields, all installed on engineered soils.

Because of Goldsboro's ideal year-round outdoor sports climate, the facility will host many different kinds of events and athletic tournaments on all-weather playing fields throughout the year.

The collaborative nature of the project, called a P4 collaboration, enabled the City of Goldsboro and Seymour Johnson Air Force Base to share resources among government and private entities to reach common goals. The United States Air Force is leasing the Bryan Complex land to the City to promote economic impact, and in return, the City has built a 2,500 sq. ft. addition onto SJAFB's main fitness center.

"It's a prime example of how positive collaboration between the Air Force and neighboring communities can strengthen the quality of life throughout the region," said Randy Guthrie, assistant city manager for the City of Goldsboro.

The facility opened in mid-2018 and includes lighted fields, a cutting edge fieldhouse with meeting space and concessions, premium restroom facilities, paved parking areas, and a retired F-4E Phantom on static display welcoming visitors. The display aircraft was assigned to the 334th

Year-round tournaments bring economic impact and exciting opportunities for athletes and the community.

"Eagles" Fighter Squadron for its entire distinguished history from September 1977 to December 1990. This aircraft was the last operational F-4E to serve at Seymour Johnson AFB.

A custom splash pad, playground, and covered picnic shelters are expected to be installed at the complex in the near future.

We wanted to make sure the complex caters to the multi-faceted needs of the community and visitors. The playground, splash pad, covered picnic shelter, and walking trails will make the complex a park and inviting for the public to enjoy.

UNITED WAY FILLS IN GAPS FOR people in need

Meals on Wheels helps adults remain home

WRITTEN BY BECKY BARCLAY

People in Wayne County who need help — whether it's financial, educational, health and wellness or disaster assistance — can get that help through United Way of Wayne County.

The organization has been here since 1925. It actually began in 1887 when the Red Feather Agency was formed in Denver. During World War I, it became the War Chest. After the war, it changed its name to Community Chest in 1917.

The Community Chest in Goldsboro became known as the United Fund of Goldsboro in 1954 and changed its name once again to Wayne United Way in 1974.

The Taste of Wayne, the organization's major fundraiser, began in 1991 and continues today.

The United Way relief fund was established in 1996 for local emergency disaster relief.

United Way conducts an annual campaign to help various local agencies here.

One of those is WAGES Nutrition Program for the Elderly, which encompasses Meals on Wheels and congregate feeding.

MEALS ON WHEELS

The nutrition program for the elderly feeds close to 500 people, including those at the two congregate sites. There are 28 Meals on Wheels routes throughout the county, with about 350 participants. Between 40 and 50 volunteers deliver the meals every day.

Brownie Doss, director of older adult services at WAGES, said the congregate part of the program began in the 1970s and Meals on Wheels was started in the early 1980s. The congregate part serves people ages 60 and older at a set site, one at the Peggy Seegars Senior Center and another at the Mount Olive Senior Center.

"Meals on Wheels is mainly for seniors," Doss said. "But we've had people who are younger than 60 who maybe had a stroke and are paralyzed on one side who met all the qualifications except the age. United Way stepped up and helps us with people who are younger than 60, about 30 throughout the county currently."

Meals on Wheels is for homebound seniors, who wouldn't otherwise be able to stay at home if not for the program.

Every day, the nutrition program for the elderly feeds close to 500 people, including those at the two congregate sites. There are 28 Meals on Wheels routes throughout the county, with about 350 participants. It takes between 40 and 50 volunteers to deliver the meals every day, Doss said.

"Our volunteers get to know the folks and it's good for us because the volunteers are our eyes out there," she said. "If they see something different about that person they're delivering a meal to, they report it to us."

"Sometimes our folks won't want their family to know something's wrong and they'll tell our volunteers before they tell their family."

Doss said all of the meals are prepared by staff at the WAGES commercial kitchen. Volunteers deliver the meals Monday through Friday.

"We are very fortunate here in Wayne County to have volunteers, but we always need more," she said. "We really need some in the Dudley area."

"If not for Meals on Wheels, a lot of these people would not be able to stay in their homes. A lot of them might be institutionalized. Not only is it much less for them to stay at home, but it's also less expensive for taxpayers. People don't realize how much Medicare dollars it takes to keep people in nursing homes — where they don't want to be anyway."

I will continue volunteering with Meals on Wheels as long as I'm able.

One of those volunteers delivering meals to the homebound is 72-year-old Martha Bryan, who has been doing it since 2003 when she retired. She also got her brother to start delivering meals when he retired.

She said she knew Meals on Wheels helped seniors stay in their homes and wanted to be a part of that.

"I've had the same route the whole time," Bryan said. "Of my 14, right now probably eight or nine are in their 90s. Were they not able to get these meals, they would probably not be able to stay at home."

"Plus, it's a way for them to see somebody. I enjoy people so I enjoy seeing them each time. They get used to you and if you're not there, they miss you. That's why I've just kept doing it."

Bryan said Meals on Wheels participants are appreciative of the hot meals she brings them. And they enjoy her company, too.

"I had one lady, Miss Betty Burden, who died just recently at 98," she said. "I had been working with her for years. When my grandchildren were little and used to come to visit, they would go with me and all the clients would love it, including Miss Betty."

"When I had knee surgery last year and was out three months, one day my brother was at her house and she wanted to talk to me, so he called me from her house to let her talk to me. Probably a month later, my brother was there and Miss Betty wanted to talk to me again."

Bryan also recalls the time about three years ago when one elderly woman was all dressed up when she delivered her meal.

"She said she was supposed to go to a funeral, but her ride called and couldn't take her," Bryan said. "I told her I'd take her when I got done delivering meals. She still to this day thanks me for taking her to the funeral. Things like that make me feel good."

Not only is Bryan taking a hot meal to a senior, but she's also checking in on them at the same time. If anything's wrong at a participant's home or someone doesn't answer the door, she reports it back to WAGES for a follow up on that person.

And she's thankful she's had only one incident in her years of delivering meals.

"I went to a man's home to deliver a meal and he didn't answer," Bryan said. "The door was open so I went in and called and called his name. He had slid off his bed and was on the floor, but he wasn't hurt. He was usually in a wheelchair or a chair. Luckily, I had someone with me that day. We were able to get him up."

Bryan said she will continue volunteering with Meals on Wheels as long as she's able.

SERVICES throughout Wayne

WRITTEN BY EDDIE FITZGERALD

Wayne County offers a large variety of things to do and services to people of all ages, including veterans and their families needing assistance and adults looking for work a home, schools and recreation.

The county has more than 30 public schools serving more than 18,000 students, with 74 percent of the Wayne County Public School graduates planning to pursue higher education. The public school system has more than 180 partners in education, consisting of area businesses and organizations, according to Public School Review.

VETERANS SERVICES

In Goldsboro, Wayne County offers a Veterans Services Office located at 2001 E. Ash St. that helps veterans and their families access needed benefits.

Amy Smith, director of the Veteran Services Office, said the office serves any of the 12,000 veterans in Wayne County and veterans from surrounding counties.

"Our main goal is to help vets file claims," Smith said. "We help them get compensation for their families that are entitled to help them complete pending claims."

The majority of clients at the Veteran Services Office are Vietnam veterans and there are also veterans from different wars up to the Gulf War, Smith said.

Veterans also get help with education and training benefits they are eligible for and burial and survivor benefits, Smith said.

"We help them navigate through the Veterans Administration system to get those benefits," she said.

Counselors are also available for group sessions, Smith said. For more information, veterans may go to waynegov.com/427/veterans-services.

SENIOR CENTER

The Wayne County' Peggy M. Seegars Senior Center and Services on Aging, at 2001 E. Ash St., has activities and services for seniors.

Paula Edwards, director of Wayne County Services on Aging, said many people in Wayne County are not aware of what the Senior Center and Services on Aging offers.

"It's not like a nursing home, Edwards said, It is very active." The people who come here do not act like old people. We're trying to change that perception. It's a great place to come to. If someone does need help, this is the place where they can come and see what might be available to them."

The Senior Center has nearly 1,000 members and people join almost weekly, Edwards said.

The Senior Center provides everything from exercise classes to health talks and special events. There are fitness rooms, a computer room and pool tables. There is also a Songbird choir and line dancing.

The Services on Aging has a program called Group Respite, which is offered at the Senior Center, and designed to give caregivers a break from watching over someone with Alzheimer's Disease or dementia, Edwards said.

There is an In-Home Aide Program that provides services to homebound elderly residents that helps them avoid institutionalization by receiving help with household tasks, like vacuuming, changing bed linens and other chores, that arthritis or other conditions prevent them from doing.

The center uses the Gateway Transit System to provide medical and general transportation to seniors throughout Wayne County. The service helps residents who otherwise would not be able to see a doctor, travel for dialysis treatments, go grocery shopping or visit the Senior Center, Edwards said.

"We're just a hub for seniors 60 and older for Wayne County," she said. "We want the seniors to live well and we hope we contribute to that and help them get out of the home. I've seen people come in who were down and depressed and lonely."

But the Senior Center and being with people seems to make them happier, Edwards said.

"It's very important they get out of their homes and connect with people and have support groups as well," she said.

FARMERS MARKET, LIBRARIES, GOVERNMENT SERVICES

Other services that can be found in the county include the Farm Credit Farmers Market behind the new, state-of-the-art Maxwell Center in Goldsboro. The market offers fresh local produce in April from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

The Wayne Executive Jetport, in the vicinity of Pikeville, provides an opportunity for industrial executives to bring more industry to the county.

The Wayne County Health Department, at 301 N. Herman St., offers a variety of programs and services from dental, maternity, family planning and testing and screening for sexually transmitted diseases, HIV and tuberculosis.

The Wayne County Public Library, at 1001 E. Ash St., has branches in Pikeville, Fremont and Mount Olive and offers programs for youth and adults.

The Wayne County Department of Social Services, at 301 N. Herman St., has a mission to improve the quality of life for all county residents.

When people can't maintain a home of their own because of a temporary or chronic physical condition or mental disability and more care is needed than can be provided by family, Wayne County Social Services offers in-home aid or community services.

DSS also provides adult protection services to assure that disabled adults are protected from abuse, neglect and exploitation; eye care that consists of eye examinations, eye glasses, eye treatment, eye surgery, hospitalization for eye disorders, ocular prostheses and eye medications; nursing home placement; and services for the blind.

From a robust K-12 public school system, to a selection of private and religious educational offerings, to two-year and four-year colleges, Wayne County is focused on educating for the future.

SUPPORTING YOUTH, PROMOTING EDUCATION

WRITTEN By SIERRA HENRY

Communities Supporting Schools of Wayne County has one goal — keep kids in school. Everything the nonprofit organization does for the students living in Wayne County follows this line of thinking, said Selena Bennett, executive director of the organization since 2011.

Success coaches, who work directly with the school leadership team to target at-risk students in an attempt to help them reach their potential, are placed in those seven schools, Bennett said. The coach's responsibilities in each school vary depending on student needs

Whether it is mentoring young students to promote confidence and success or helping students stay out of the juvenile justice system through diversion programs and Teen Court, Community Supporting Schools of Wayne County does it all.

"We wear a lot of different hats depending on what that school principal wants us to do," said Bennett. "Everything connects in the middle because the goal is to keep kids in school. We're trying to keep them there so that they will graduate and go on to either a college, learn a trade, join the military or whatever it is.

"We're trying to help them be successful on their chosen path, whatever that may be."

Communities Supporting Schools of Wayne County began in 1992 with a task force that formed to organize a Communities in Schools (CIS) agency in Wayne County. At that time, the group worked to form the core of the organization before turning it over to a board of directors in 1993 who then hired the first executive director in 1994.

For 23 years, Communities in Schools of Wayne County, as it was called at the time, worked diligently to serve students living in Wayne County through various programs and efforts. The organization was affiliated with the national organization of CIS but ultimately made a huge decision in 2017 to break away from the national organization, since its values were no longer in line with what the Wayne County group needed at the time.

While the name of CIS of Wayne changed to Communities Supporting Schools of Wayne County, the overall mission and goals of the organization stayed the same — to serve students, to keep students in school and to keep students on a path toward success.

Today, the organization partners with seven Wayne County public schools: Goldsboro, Southern Wayne and Spring Creek high schools; Grantham, Brogden and Mount Olive middle schools; and Carver Heights Elementary School.

Success coaches, who work directly with the school leadership team to target at-risk students in an attempt to help them reach their potential, are placed in those seven schools, Bennett said. The coach's responsibilities in each school vary depending on student needs, so where Goldsboro High might need a mentor to help students prepare for life after high school and applying for colleges, other schools may need a reading mentor or a special case manager.

Communities Supporting Schools of Wayne County

partners with seven Wayne County public schools: Goldsboro, Southern Wayne and Spring Creek high schools; Grantham, Brogden and Mount Olive middle schools; and Carver Heights Elementary School.

“Our goal is to target those kids who need additional support in the schools,” Bennett said.

The nonprofit also operates three additional programs under the Restorative Justice branch of the organization: Teen Court, Mediation and Community Services.

The North Carolina Department of Public Safety partners with Juvenile Crime Prevention Councils across the state in an effort to reduce and offenses through community service, jury duty and other educational opportunities. Juveniles are referred to the program by juvenile court counselors, school resource officers and district court judges.

Juveniles may be referred to the Community Service program as “restitution” for their offenses. This allows students to “pay back” their community for breaking the law through volunteer work. Students may be placed at nonprofit organizations, such as the Goldsboro Family YMCA, the Boys and Girls Clubs of Wayne County, the prevent juvenile crime. CSS of Wayne operates the three programs under state guidelines.

“We know that, when they are suspended, they are more likely to continue down a path,” Bennett said. “Suspension for some kids means going home to no supervision, and for some kids, you’re giving them exactly what they want. That’s not an answer to anything.

“Once kids get mixed up in the juvenile court system, the chances of them not graduating and then you get into the pipeline-to-prison discussion, once they get into that, it’s harder to get them out.”

Teen court is a diversion program for juvenile offenders between ages 12 and 18 who are still enrolled in school. The students “make restitution” for their misdemeanor

Salvation Army Family Store and Habitat for Humanity.

The Mediation Conflict Resolution Program helps students discuss difficult issues and guide them through a structured setting, Bennett said. It is used to help students work through conflict and develop resolution skills before they fall into fighting or bullying. Students are referred to the program through teachers, school administration or school resource officers.

The Mediation Conflict Resolution Program began in Dillard Middle School and has now expanded to Goldsboro High School, Bennett said.

Communities Supporting Schools of Wayne County partners with many organizations to provide a number of services for Wayne County students. This includes holding fundraisers, school supply drives and more.

WAGES

LEARNING, SERVICE, COMMUNITY

Do you know a child in Head Start? Have you helped deliver Meals on Wheels? Does someone you know have a Senior Companion? Have you seen a weatherization crew blowing insulation in a home? ALL of this, and more, is WAGES!

For half a century, WAGES Community Action Agency has been making a difference in Wayne County. Wayne Action Group for Economic Solvency, Inc. (WAGES) is a local non-profit which administers human service programs. WAGES was chartered in 1965 with the mission to mobilize countywide resources to combat poverty.

WAGES supports the youngest to the oldest members of our community. WAGES serves young children and families through Head Start, Early Head Start and Wayne County First Steps. Meals on Wheels and Congregate Meals provide nutritious meals and social contact. Senior volunteers make a difference through the Foster Grandparents and Senior Companions programs. CSBG Self-Sufficiency helps individuals move out of poverty by providing education and job training support. The Weatherization Program reduces the energy burden in homes of low-income families.

WAGES is celebrating more than 50 years of quality service and continues to be dedicated to changing lives, mobilizing resources and improving the community. To make an impact in Wayne County, become a part of the diverse programs provided by WAGES Community Action Agency. # WAYNE COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS helping every student graduate and prepare for life outside the classroom.

Located in Eastern North Carolina, Wayne County Public Schools (WCPS) is the 21st largest school district in North Carolina (out of 115). The district serves more than 18,000 students across 32 schools, and employs approximately 3,000 people annually. The school district offers a variety of high quality academic programs in a technology rich environment to help motivate and engage students in learning.

WCPS is committed to producing competent high-tech employees that can be successful in the 21st Century workplace. In addition to being exposed to digital teaching and learning efforts in traditional classrooms, middle and high school students have the opportunity to take part in project-based Career and Technical Education (CTE) courses. Through hands-on experiences, CTE students learn key elements and skills needed in essential career fields. Recognizing that some career paths require higher education, WCPS maintains a strong collaborative partnership with Wayne Community College. WCPS students have the opportunity to take part in college classes and take advantage of a myriad of course offerings. Additionally, WCC administers WorkKeys assessments to hundreds of WCPS high school juniors and seniors to ensure they have the skills to compete in global markets and to meet local workforce demands.

In addition to a strong academic curriculum, students are being exposed to visual arts, performing arts, and foreign language programs. Numerous club offerings, extra-curricular programs, and service organizations rooted in volunteerism are also available for students, as well as more than 270 middle and high school athletic teams district-wide. As a result of student efforts at school, home, and in the community, WCPS graduates are able to demonstrate that hard work does pay off with millions of dollars in grants and scholarships awarded annually.

Wayne County DEVELOPMENT ALLIANCE

PUTTING WAYNE COUNTY TO WORK

Communities market themselves to achieve multiple economic development objectives. The Wayne County Development Alliance (WCDA) focuses primarily on industrial manufacturing, assembly, and distribution companies in various sectors such as Automotive, Agriculture, Advanced Manufacturing, and Aerospace.

WCDA'S OBJECTIVE IS TO MARKET THE COUNTY'S ASSETS FOR:

- Attraction, retention, and expansion of local industry
- Improvement of the community's image locally, nationally and internationally
- Encourage workforce talents and training
- Showcase available buildings and sites
- Promote transportation networks and accessibility
- Foster a business-friendly community

From an economic development perspective, one major industry relocation or expansion can revitalize a community's economy by creating jobs and spreading the tax base among the citizens.

Many organizations contribute to a community's marketing activities, including state and local governments, chambers of commerce, utility companies, regional organizations, community development organizations, property developers, hospitals, universities, community colleges, and tourist bureaus. The degree to which these organizations coordinate their activities around a shared vision is a critical determinant of marketing success.

BASED ON A 2017 ARTICLE IN AREA DEVELOPMENT MAGAZINE, THE 'TOP 7 CRITICAL SITE SELECTION FACTORS' ARE AS FOLLOWS:

- Highway Accessibility
- Labor Costs
- Availability of Skilled Labor
- Quality of Life
- Tax Exemptions
- Occupancy and Construction Costs
- Proximity to Major Markets
- Corporate Tax Rate

In light of these results, Wayne County is well-positioned to attract new industry and to address the needs of expanding industries as well. The WCDA continually strives to partner with other allies and organizations to improve on each of the categories listed above.

Wayne County's transportation network alone is a huge marketing asset that is worthy of recognition. Promoting these assets is just one way the Wayne County Development Alliance is 'Putting Wayne To Work.'

CANCER CARE

in Wayne county

WRITTEN BY SAMER S. KASBARI, MD, MS

Cancer care in Wayne county spans over a period of more than 30 years. We have been very fortunate to have oncologists throughout the years servicing cancer patients. This year, Southeastern Medical Oncology Center is about to celebrate its 27th Anniversary. It was founded by Dr. James Atkins and has attracted many oncologists/hematologists over the years. Currently, Southeastern Medical Oncology Center (SMOC) has offices in Clinton and Jacksonville. Our practice, under the supervision of Drs. Samer Kasbari and Jason Boyd, is very patient centered and strives to provide the utmost care and attention to cancer patients while they embark on their journey of fighting cancer.

The support to our cancer patients has been phenomenal in Wayne county. Though we are considered a relatively small medical community, we have been well equipped with the main medical specialties to provide cancer care. Our board certified radiologists, surgeons, urologists, ENT surgeons, radiation oncologist and gastroenterologists, are all part of this intercut multidisciplinary approach providing care to our patients. Wayne County's up-to-date CAT scans, mammograms, PET scans and MRIs, are utilized in screening and diagnosing cancers. 3D-mammography has been servicing Wayne county for more than 2 years.

While discussing cancer care in Wayne County, one must not forget the cutting edge therapy that we provide for our patients through the National Cancer Institute (NCI) and pharmaceutical clinical trials. SMOC has been an active participant through thousands of trials and has been recognized regionally and nationally for the commitment to our patients. Clinical trials have been providing our patients with exposure to new therapies that are not FDA approved yet. The oncologists at SMOC are committed to providing such therapeutic options to their patients instead of them seeking care at larger tertiary centers. "Expert, compassionate cancer care close to home" as SMOC's motto exemplifies our mission.

Our staff at SMOC is committed to cancer care and is a crucial part of volunteering for Southeastern Cancer Care (SCC), a 501-c-3, non-profit organization. SCC has been providing financial assistance to all cancer patients actively seeking treatment in most of eastern North Carolina. Assistance is in the form of gas cards, grocery vouchers, utility bill payments and oncology related prescription drugs. The doctors at SMOC continue to work closely with the medical community to provide the best outcomes to our cancer patients of Wayne County.

AGRICULTURE

in Wayne county

Wayne County is unique in the fact that we have a large population over 123,000 while also having a large agriculture presence with 75% of the county's total land area is farms and woodland. Farming and Agribusiness is the largest industry in Wayne County generating over $1 billion for our local economy. Five of the top six manufacturing employers in the county are agribusinesses. Wayne County is home to Goldsboro Milling Company, parent company of Butterball Turkey, largest producer of turkey products in the United States. Wayne County is also home of Mt. Olive Pickle Company, the largest pickle company in the United States.

The county is situated in the coastal plain of North Carolina and has excellent soils and a moderate climate which is conducive for agriculture production. Wayne County has a diverse farm industry and is a national leader in the production of tobacco, hogs, and turkeys. Other important commodities grown here include: broilers, corn, soybeans, cotton, wheat, sweet potatoes, cucumbers, watermelons, cattle, strawberries and numerous other commodities. According to the US Census of Agriculture, Wayne County is the 4th largest agriculture county in the state with over $415 million in farm gate receipts. Farm Futures Magazine ranked Wayne County as the 5th best place to farm in the United States.

Agriculture is the leading industry for Wayne County and has been since the county was formed in 1779.

Early agriculture included hogs, cattle, corn, rice and turpentine. By the mid 1800's, cotton was the major crop grown in Wayne County. By 1900, there were 39 cotton gins in Wayne County and two Cotton Mills (Borden Manufacturing Co. and Wayne Cotton Mills). The Naval Stores industry (Tar, Pitch, and Turpentine) was also a significant industry in the mid 1800's. In the 1870's, tobacco became a major business for the local economy as producers began to grow this lucrative crop and several markets were developed locally. In the mid 1900's, animal agriculture became a significant industry with turkey production increasing. In the 1980's, swine production became a dominate factor in the agriculture economy for the county. Today livestock production accounts for 2/3 of the farm gate receipts.

Wayne County's local agriculture offices are located at the Maxwell Regional Agricultural and Convention Center. The Maxwell Center houses Cooperative Extension, Soil and Water, Natural Resources Conservation Service and Farm Service Agency. Five of the six high schools have agriculture programs and FFA chapters. Four middle schools have agriculture programs. The county is also home to Cherry Research Farm and the Center for Environmental Farming Systems. Monsanto Company and BASF Corporation both maintain research farms in the county. Wayne Community College and the University of Mt. Olive have agriculture departments that support our community.

Seymour Johnson AIR FORCE BASE

BASE PRESENCE FELT THROUGHOUT AREA

WRITTEN BY BECKY BARCLAY

Seymour Johnson has a proud heritage dating back to 1942.

It was established five months after the United States entered World War II. The War Department approved the establishment of a technical school 2 miles southeast of Goldsboro.

The base was activated June 12, 1942. It was named in honor of United States Navy Lt. Seymour A. Johnson, a Goldsboro native and test pilot, who was killed in an airplane crash in Maryland in 1941.

In June 1943, the base began preparing officers and enlisted personnel for duty overseas. That unit was known as the Provisional Overseas Replacement Training Center.

Then in 1943, another mission was added: to provide basic military training for cadets preparing to become technical officers in the Army Air Corps. The 75th Training Wing was established for this purpose.

The 326th Fighter Group arrived in October 1943, and in January 1944 it began training replacement pilots for P-47 Thunderbolt aircraft. That became the primary mission of Seymour Johnson Field that April.

At the end of World War II in Europe, the base became a central assembly station for processing and training troops being reassigned in the continental United States and the Pacific theater of operations. But that was discontinued in September 1945 and the base became an Army Air Forces Separation Center.

The base was deactivated in May 1946.

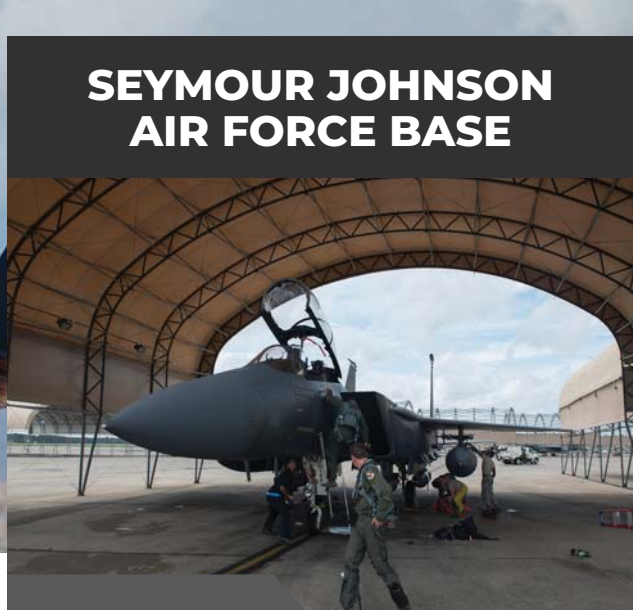

The United States Army Corps of Engineers demolished old buildings and began building new ones in late 1952.

Goldsboro community leaders, led by Mayor Scott B. Berkeley Sr., began a campaign to have the installation reopened.

It worked, and April 1, 1956, Seymour Johnson Air Force Base was reactivated as a Tactical Air Command base. Three months later, the 83rd Fighter-Day Wing was assigned to the base as its primary unit. It was replaced by the 4th Fighter Wing Dec. 8, 1957.

The base has been home to active duty, Air National Guard and Air Reserve B-52 bombers, KC-10 and KC-135 tankers and F-4D/E, F-16, F-102, F-106 and F-15E aircraft.

Wayne County and Seymour Johnson Air Force Base go hand-in-hand, supporting each other and celebrating each other's milestones. The base has a definite impact on Wayne County's economy, too.

Seymour Johnson was annexed by the City of Goldsboro Feb. 7, 1977.

Base personnel volunteer in various capacities at various organizations throughout the county.

The strong partnership between the base and surrounding communities is evidenced by the city's motto "Be More, Do More, Seymour."

4th Fighter Wing

The 4th Fighter Wing is one of only two Air Force units that can trace its history to another country.

Before the United States got into World War II, American volunteers were already serving as combat veterans in the Royal Air Force Eagle Squadrons, the 71st, the 121st and the 133rd.

The 4th Fighter Group was the first to use belly tanks, the first to penetrate Germany, the first to accompany bombers to Berlin, the first to fly the England-to-Russia shuttle and the first to down jet fighters.

It was inactivated at Camp Kilmer, N.J., in 1945.

In March 1949, it transitioned to F-86 Sabre jets, just in time for the Korean War. In December 1950, it was designated the 4th Fighter-Interceptor Group.

It became the 4th Fighter Wing Dec. 1, 1995.

916th Air Refueling Wing

The 916th Air Refueling Wing also has a rich history in Goldsboro that started more than 70 years ago. Its history dates back to World War II. It officially became mission ready in April 1997 with the task of refueling domestic and global exercise and operational flights.

Reservists and active duty come from various counties across the state and several states to dedicate their weekends and time off from civilian jobs to serve their country.

EXPLORE REGIONAL Attractions

North Carolina is filled with unique places to visit and totally unforgettable experiences, and Wayne County is located conveniently close to the best our state has to offer.

WAYNE COUNTY: THE CENTER OF IT ALL

Do you love the snow or the sand? The mountains or the beach? Playing golf or watching the NFL? Going shopping or going to the theater? Here's our answer: all of the above.

In North Carolina, you don't have to just choose what to do, you have to choose what to do first!

Goldsboro is located about halfway between the beautiful beaches and the vibrant and growing cities of Raleigh and Durham – all with plenty to do in a day trip.

Beyond this two-hour radius, you can easily reach the mountains, more beaches, lakes, forests, world-class golf courses and so much more.

North Carolina has three distinctive geographic regions, the mountains in the west, the piedmont in the center, and the coast to the east. Goldsboro is just east of the piedmont in the beginning of the lush coastal plain. Once you've settled in Goldsboro, hop on the highway for a weekend, or weeklong getaway.

For event calendars, activities, landmarks, destinations and more, visit the official website of North Carolina Travel and Tourism at www.VisitNC.com.

NORTH CAROLINA MOUNTAINS

Hiking in the Appalachian mountains or the Great Smoky Mountains (5-6 hours west of Goldsboro).

Driving through the fall foliage on the 250-mile stretch of the world-famous Blue Ridge Parkway. Join the parkway at Asheville (5 hours west of Goldsboro).

Visit Asheville, one of the most lively and beautiful of the state's mountain towns. Shopping, hiking, and more!

Tour the famous Biltmore mansion in Asheville.

Go skiing or snowing in the Appalachian mountains (Blowing Rock, NC, 4 hours, 30 minutes west of Goldsboro).

NORTH CAROLINA COAST

Rent a cottage at the Outer Banks, a chain of fragile barrier islands featuring 130 miles of unspoiled coastline (3 hours east of Goldsboro).

Visit famous lighthouses at Hatteras (4 hours east of Goldsboro) or Cape Lookout (3 hours east of Goldsboro).

Tour the city of Wilmington's historic downtown, the Battleship North Carolina, and then head to the beach (2 hours south of Goldsboro).

Relax in the sun, surf, and sand at any of North Carolina's beautiful beaches!

NORTH CAROLINA PIEDMONT

Golf at Pinehurst, the home of American golf (2 hours west of Goldsboro).

Shop for furniture in the "Home Furnishings Capital of the World™" at High Point (2 hours, 30 minutes west of Goldsboro).

Water ski at Jordan Lake, Falls Lake, Lake Gaston, or Kerr Lake – four of the state's largest reservoirs.

Take in a NHL game in Raleigh, a NFL game or NASCAR race in Charlotte, or try to find tickets to the state's most famous rivalry: Duke versus University of North Carolina basketball.

MEET UP

Meeting Facilities: Be it hundreds, thousands, or a small group, Wayne County has a space for every occasion.
