Introduction

It's beginning to look a little like ... normalcy!

COVID restrictions have lifted, mask mandates have softened and people are ready to get back out there.

For two decades the Yolo County Almanac has been a one-stop guide for all details Yolo County. The Daily Democrat is proud to present the latest 2022 edition to answer all your questions, from farmers markets hours to locations of area parks.

The guide breaks down pertinent information and contacts in the cities of Woodland, Davis, West Sacramento, Winters and Esparto and the unincorporated areas of the county.

Readers will have instant access to winery and brewery locations, post office hours, county government contacts, library hours, museum information and more at mere fingertips.

Whether you're a community resident or visiting from out of town, the Daily Democrat's annual Yolo County Almanac and Resource Guide is an invaluable resource with all the information you need to live, work or play in Yolo County.

Winters

Founded in 1875

Incorporated in 1898

When the charming town of Winters was founded in 1875, it claimed a special place in California's history as the Sacramento Valley's commercial center for agriculture and passenger rail service. Over the years, Winters has retained its original historic and rural charm, offering visitors a glimpse of the past while enjoying a variety of modern amenities. A walk down the National Historic Main Street is a walk through history, with many architectural treasures now occupied by restaurants, shops and businesses. See some of the following for more about historic Winters.

Historic Winters Main Street Walking Tour — Experience the flavor of Winters as it was in times past by a walk through Main Street. For a map or more information, call the Chamber office, 795-2329, or stop by at 11 Main Street.

Historic Homes of Winters Tour map — View special homes, some built over 100 years ago. For a map or more information, call the Chamber office, 795-2329, or stop by at 11 Main Street.

Woodland

Woodland is the county seat of Yolo County, located in California's Central Valley. Woodland is located 20 miles northwest of Sacramento at the intersection of Interstate 5 and State Route 113. To the south is the City of Davis, with its University of California campus. The Sacramento International Airport is eight miles to the east. Waterways include the Yolo Bypass and Sacramento River to the east, Willow Slough to the southeast, and Cache Creek to the north.

Woodland has a strong historic heritage, which is reflected in an impressive stock of historic buildings in its downtown core and surrounding neighborhoods. Woodland's agricultural setting is largely responsible for the community's distinct identity and plays an important economic role in Woodland. Due to its proximity to major transportation nodes, Woodland has also become increasingly important as a manufacturing and distribution center.

Davis

Incorporated: 1917

As a university town, Davis has the advantages of a small town coupled with the numerous intellectual, recreational and cultural activities serving a wide variety of interests. The University State Farm opened in 1908 near Davis, an education institution run by UC Berkeley's College of Agriculture. As the university's program offerings and enrollment grew, so too did Davis. In 1962, the university became a general campus of the University of California system. The following decades witnessed a large population and construction boom, reflective of trends observable in many other parts of California. Ultimately however, a more growth-conscious attitude took hold, contributing to the Davis' reputation as a community highly concerned with finding a balance between environmental considerations and growth. Today the City of Davis is a university-oriented city of over 66,000 residents. Specific planning decisions made in years past have led to the development of a city widely considered to be one of the most bike-friendly in the country.

Esparto

The name Esparto means “feather grass” in Spanish, and it is a delicate, peaceful place. Established in 1888, it was an important stop along the Vaca Valley Railroad line until 1941 when service ended. With some 3,200 residents, Esparto is the largest community in Capay Valley.

Esparto Community Park is the epicenter of the annual Capay Valley Almond Festival, which takes place the last weekend in February ~ and this year marks its 102nd anniversary. Live music, food, vendors, and a huge antique automobile show are just part of the fun.

If you like freshly prepared sandwiches or meat cuts to take home for the BBQ, stop at Manas Meats just east of town on Highway 16. On the edge of town, affiliated Manas Ranch offers “The Best Peaches in the West” according to Sunset Magazine, plus their fabulous selection of local jams.

Esparto is also home of the Esparto Regional Chamber of Commerce and of Capay Valley Vision, both of which serve the community and visitors alike with helpful information. Stop by the office along Main Street to pick up the new Capay Valley Farm Trail Map and enjoy the rest of your visit.

Towns (Courtesy espartoregionalchamber.com)

Madison:
The name Madison was bestowed by Daniel Bradley Hulbert after his hometown, Madison, Wisconsin, in 1877. Surrounded by farmland, Madison has always been a quiet little burg, with a population of just over 500 souls, at the vital intersection of Highway 16 and County Road 89.

At Guy's Corner, you can get gas and supplies for the road, and a delicious meal at the adjacent La Plazita restaurant. Spring through Fall, you'll often find local farmers selling fresh-picked produce, from strawberries to melons to corn.

The Madison Fire Department takes charge of producing the big car show every year during the Almond Festival in February. From here, it's a short drive to Historic Oakdale Ranch (a popular wedding and event venue) and, further on, the heart of the Capay Valley.

Capay:
The town of Capay has a long and colorful history. Located on the Mexican land grant Rancho Canada de Capay, the town was originally named Munchville after one of the first white settlers, a man named Munch, who built a house on the Cache Creek in 1857. The local post office opened in 1868. The town got renamed Langville after John A. Lang, who operated a hotel and owned a brick yard and a store in the early 1870s. Langville grew enough to have a town plat filed on January 1, 1875, and the town became Capay.

Today you will find Road Trip Bar & Grill, serving great food and often presenting live music out in the back patio area, and Capay Junction Saloon, a favorite stop for thirsty travelers. You may also see farm stands selling local honey, eggs, and arts-&-crafts goods.

Close by is Capay Organic Farm, source of Farm Fresh To You CSA delivery service and host for occasional farm tours and hosts events like the annual Capay Tomato Festival and Capay Crush. Neighboring Grumpy Goats Farm makes some of the best extra virgin olive oil you can buy. You can spend the night at charming Capay Valley Bed & Breakfast, with two comfortable rooms and two charming cottages.

Brooks:
Brooks is best known as the home of the Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation, the tribe of Native American Indians who have called this part of the world home for many generations. The tribe farms hundreds of acres here, producing wines, olive oil, vinegars, and honey under their Séka Hills brand. Their olives (and the fruit of many other producers) are pressed at the state-of-the-art Séka Hills Olive Mill, which also sports a beautiful public tasting room and a busy schedule of events.

The tribe also built the 200-room Cache Creek Casino Resort—a full-service resort with nine restaurants, spa, outdoor pool, a concert hall, and other amenities—and the splendid Yocha Dehe Golf Club; these two remarkable facilities draw visitors from literally all over the world.

You'll find wine-tasting also at Capay Valley Vineyards, with premium small-lot Cabernet Sauvignon, Syrah, Tempranillo, and Viognier—and “The Champagne of Yolo County,” their luscious Sparking Viognier. The landscape is lovely around here with orchards, vineyards, rolling foothills, and open unhurried road.

Guinda:
In the 19th Century, Southern Pacific Railroad officials named the town after a cherry tree: “guinda” means “cherry” in Spanish. Guinda got its first post office in 1889. Today less than 300 call Guinda home.

But don't pass it by. You'll enjoy discovering Guinda Commons for lunch or dinner, especially their delicious smoked means and (when the weather is cold) their stone fireplace in the dining room.

During Almond Festival, the Western Yolo Grange hosts an exhibit of old farm engines and machinery as well as a sale of locally made foods, crafts, and artwork. At the venerable Corner Store (“Grocery, Beer, Bait, Ice” reads the sign), you can stock up for the day or the trip home—they retail lots of products from local Capay Valley farms including produce (much from nearby Riverdog Farm), breads, jams, olives, olive oil, pork, chicken, and lamb. You might also catch live music being performed out back.

Stretch your legs at 22-acre Vernon A. Nichols County Park, which embraces a lovely stretch of Cache Creek and includes picnic tables, barbecues, a playground, beach area, creek swimming, fishing, and a baseball field. Here you can also visit the Will Baker Garden, a lovely ½-acre native memorial garden.

Rumsey:
Rumsey might be the “blink and you'll miss” it town in Capay Valley, but you'll want to have your eyes wide open to the natural beauty all around here. You can stop to enjoy it most at Cache Creek Canyon Regional Park just 3 miles north, offering several miles of river access and swimming spots, plus picnic tables, overnight camp sites, and a playground. Also close by is Camp Haswell, a favorite access point for kayakers and rafters.

In 1878, the spot was called “Rock,” but 10 years later the post office moved and the name changed—Rumsey derives from DeWitt Clinton Rumsey, the prominent property owner there at the time.

During Almond Festival, the locals cook up a storm, from barbeque to smoked oysters. You can also shop for local produce, nuts, honey, and arts and crafts. Rumsey is also the home of Cache Canyon River Trips, offering one- or two-day white-water rafts trips starting high up above the canyon, running Class 1, 2, and 3 rapids, and out toward the valley floor—enjoy pure excitement and unmatched scenery in one fell swoop. To rest your weary head, consider the comforts of Rumsey House B&B, with two spacious rooms, lovely grounds, rocking chairs on the broad porch, and well-prepared fare.

Located on the Sacramento River, Clarksburg is profoundly defined by the maritime influence of the Sacramento Delta, and is comparable to the best wine grape regions in California (Napa, Sonoma, Paso Robles) in terms of degree days and day to evening temperatures.

The two main gateways to the Clarksburg appellation are via Highway 80 and Interstate 5.

There are more than 7,000 acres of wine grapes, the most popular being Chardonnay, Chenin Blanc, Merlot, Petite Sirah, and Sauvignon Blanc.

Uncrowded and unspoiled, Clarksburg features beautiful landscapes, country roads, quaint wineries and tasting rooms that transport visitors to an entirely different environment.

Only 20 minutes from Downtown Sacramento, visitors are encouraged to experience the authentic laid back charm and hospitality. Families and friends can enjoy scenic beauty, elegant events, fun-loving celebrations with wine and food, as well as diverse wines from various wineries and tasting rooms.

Originally built in 1934 as an operating beet sugar refinery, the Old Sugar Mill now hosts more than a dozen wineries offering varietals from all over Northern California. Zinfandel, Cabernet Sauvignon, Barbera, Tempranillo, Chardonnay, Chenin Blanc and Sangiovese are just a few of the featured wines. Located in the heart of the Clarksburg AVA, the Old Sugar Mill is the premier destination for enjoying world class wines with friends and family. Complete with picnic grounds, the Old Sugar Mill is a perfect venue for your next wine trip, wedding or event.

Hours of the individual tasting rooms vary.

West Sacramento

Incorporated 1987

Just across the bridge from Downtown Sacramento and minutes from Davis, West Sacramento offers a great location for area visitors. Take advantage of the West Sacexperience by playing in the parks and riverfront, fishing in the deep water canal, rowing at the port or visiting one of the local, organic farms. West Sacramento serves as corporate headquarters for a variety of businesses, including Nor-Cal Beverage, Raley's/Bel Air, The California Fuel Cell Partnership, Brown Construction, Miyamoto International, Farmers' Rice Cooperative, Wallace-Kuhl & Associates, CalSTRS and Nippon Shaken. West Sacramento is blazing the trail as a model for California cities by balancing responsible business expansion and industrial growth with a variety of innovative, affordable communities.

Economic Development & Housing

In accordance with Senate Bill 115, applications are no longer open for the CA COVID-19 Rent Relief Program. State law extends eviction protections until June 30, 2022 for qualifying applications received by March 31. But eviction protections do not extend for non-payment of rent after March 31. That means tenants must pay rent and utility bills beginning April 1.

California tenants or landlords can visit the Housing Is Key website, or they can call toll-free 833-430-2122.

As the City attempts to resume normal services, we are asking the public to work with us as we adapt to appropriate safety measures for our staff and you. During this time Public Works will be observing a few changes in work flow to minimize exposure and still provide services.

If you would like to rent a Hydrant Meter please call (916) 617-4850 before coming in so we can have the paperwork complete and waiting to minimize contact during this time. Also, wearing a mask is required when coming in to retrieve or return the meter. Vendors are asked to make appointments as we will not be allowing drop-ins. The City would like to thank you for your understanding during this emergency situation. We hope to be back to full capacity as early as safely possible.
